All the latest scientific news are in our compact digest:

Cell signal: What high court ruling may mean for future of digital privacy

What expectation of privacy do consumers have in an increasingly technological world? New technology is forcing more answers - and reinterpretation of the Constitution.

US farmers, desperate for help, increasingly turn to Mexico

In Michigan, a top fruit producer, the number of growers using an expensive and cumbersome visa process to bring farmhands from Mexico has jumped from four to 50 in the past four years. Congress is considering a bill that would make it easier to employ guest workers.

Republicans and Democrats agree: presidents should not self-pardon

A new poll has found that Americans generally agree that presidents should not pardon themselves. Three-quarters of Republicans say a president should not self-pardon if charged with a crime and more than 9 in 10 Democrats agree.

On US-Mexican border, the rules change, but human impulses don't

Immigration is a topic heavy with statistics and policy proposals. But it's also about humanity. Our reporter went to the Texas-Mexico border to hear stories from people on both sides.

A journey along the shoals of a gentrifying L.A. neighborhood

AP test debate: How much world history should high-schoolers know?

The College Board announced recently that the Advanced Placement World History test will now start with the year AD 1450, excluding most history before European imperialism.

Democrats scramble to find clear strategy against Trump's immigration policy

Democrats have developed a 'kitchen-sink' strategy to both energize their base for the fall's midterm elections and fight against the Trump administration's immigration policy on separating families at the US-Mexico border.

Poll: Most Americans approve of Trump's handling of North Korea

The majority approval shows a sway in public opinion after the US-North Korea summit, according to The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research. It is President Trump's highest approval rating on a single issue on an AP-NORC poll since his inauguration.

Next hurdle at the border: how to reunite children with families

Organizations like the Texas Civil Rights Project have been working to collect information on undocumented children at the US-Mexico border before their parents are sent to jail or an immigration detention center for entering the country illegally. But civil rights groups say it's proving difficult to keep children and parents in contact.
